Dear partners,

Warm greetings from Chiba University, Japan!

We are writing to inform about our inbound student exchange program, Japan Program at Chiba (J-PAC) for the academic year 2025-2026.

J-PAC is the exchange program for undergraduate students who are interested in studying Japanese language and culture. It has two courses; International Liberal Arts Course and Japanese Studies Course. The available student number depends on our student exchange agreement in principle.

Language requirement

Either 1 or 2 is required for J-PAC. Please refer to the J-PAC Outline for details.

1. Sufficient level of English (CEFR B2 or higher) + Japanese language learning experience at least for 50 hours
2. Sufficient level of Japanese (JLPT N2 or higher)

Study period

1. Full academic year: October to August next year
2. Fall semester only: October to February next year
3. Spring semester only: April to August

Note: Students cannot change their study periods after they apply. Please make sure if it is appropriate for them.

CHIBA UNIVERSITY

Since its start over 25 years ago, the J-PAC has welcomed students from Chiba University's partner institutions in great numbers. Their experience of the J-PAC has given exchange students in the program, as well as Chiba University students who studied with them, unforgettable memories, and has forged lasting friendships. Many of those who have completed our program decide to come back to Chiba University for further studies, or return to work in Japan after graduating from their home institutions.

The lushly green Nishi-Chiba Campus where J-PAC students attend classes is conveniently located only 40 minutes by train from the center of Tokyo. We hope that you consider applying to the J-PAC soon!

CHIBA
UNIVERSITY

Chiba University

Chiba University is a comprehensive university founded in 1949. It hosts approximately 14,000 undergraduate and graduate students and is ranked high both in terms of size and quality among national universities in Japan.

There are currently 11 undergraduate faculties at Chiba University: College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, Faculty of Letters, Faculty of Law, Politics and Economics, Faculty of Education, Faculty of Science, Faculty of Engineering, Faculty of Horticulture, School of Medicine, Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences, School of Nursing and Faculty of Informatics. There are also a number of graduate schools: Graduate School of Humanities and Study of Public Affairs, Law School, Graduate School of Education, Graduate School of Science and Engineering, Graduate School of Horticulture, Graduate School of Medical and Pharmaceutical Sciences, Graduate School of Nursing, Graduate Degree Program of Global and Transdisciplinary Studies and Graduate School of Informatics. Finally, other facilities providing various services are also attached to the university: among them, the University Library, the Academic Link Center, the Safety and Health Organization and the University Hospital.

Chiba University's Distinctive Features

As the University Charter "Always Aim Higher" expresses, Chiba University aims to foster students with high intelligence and rich humanity, who can play an active role as leaders in global society. To achieve this goal the university has been actively enhancing its liberal arts program and has been promoting the internationalization of its curriculum. In particular Chiba University is the first national university to establish a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences with the goal of fostering adults who will be able to approach world issues from a wide and comprehensive perspective.

Chiba University has been awarded by the Ministry of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology of Japan the status of "Top Global University", a name given to educational institutions considered to be at the front line of the globalization of Japanese society in 2014. The University has developed programs that foster the ability to put things into practice as experts by looking at various phenomena from bird's-eye view and making new discoveries and has been actively promoting the international exchange of foreign and home students. In addition, since 2020, Chiba University has started the "Enhanced Network for Global Innovation Education (ENGINE)" program, focusing on overseas study and English language education. Also, there are approximately 1,000 students are studying at Chiba University every year.

The International Support Desk located on-campus provides assistance to international students with their lives in Japan. Nishi-Chiba Campus is located approximately 40 minutes by train from Tokyo and 45 minutes by car from Narita International Airport. With a warm climate and comparatively cheap prices, you are bound to find life in Chiba very enjoyable.

Chiba University has four campuses at Nishi-Chiba, Inohana, Matsudo and Kashiwanoha in Chiba and Sumida satellite campus in Tokyo.

J-PAC (Japan Program at Chiba)

J-PAC (Japan Program at Chiba) is offered to undergraduate students from academic institutions with which Chiba University has university-level student exchange agreements, and whose academic interest is in the area of Japanese culture and society.

J-PAC includes International Liberal Arts Course, which offers to students irrespective of their area of specialization, and Japanese Studies Course, which is designed for students who specialize in Japanese language or Japanese studies at their universities. J-PAC students will be exempted from the registration, admission and tuition fees at Chiba University.

※Graduate students cannot apply for J-PAC.

<Study period of J-PAC>

J-PAC students can study at Chiba University during the study periods listed below.

- ① From October to August
- ② From October to February (i.e. Fall semester)
- ③ From April to August (i.e. Spring semester)

※ In general, study period cannot be changed. Please decide it after a discussion with your academic advisor and international office.

01

International Liberal Arts Course

1. Aims

This course is designed for those undergraduate students who have already acquired some Japanese language skills and are interested in Japanese culture and society. This course welcomes students from science and engineering as well as students from humanities. It includes a number of courses in liberal arts where Japan is served as an example and reference point for multidimensional analysis. It is envisaged that through collaborative learning international exchange students together with Chiba University students will deepen their understanding of Japan and gain new viewpoints on their native cultures and societies, and acquire the ability to think about global problems from multiple perspectives and solve them irrespective of language barriers and different behavioral patterns.

Please refer to page 14 for the application conditions.

2. Characteristics

Students can choose subjects according to their interests and concerns.

Courses are offered to attain the following four goals:

- ① to deepen understanding of Japanese culture and society;
- ② to participate in courses in the areas of Chiba University's greatest strengths;
- ③ to promote intercultural understanding through exchanges with Chiba University students;
- ④ to acquire sufficient proficiency in the Japanese language for daily life and university study.

Japanese Studies Course

Students will be able to select courses depending on their interest and their language proficiency level; courses offered in English, courses where both English and Japanese are used, courses open for international students only and regular courses offered in Japanese. Also, most of the courses feature active learning where classes are split into small groups and students collaborate and learn from each other while working on a given task, thus making classes of their own.

1. Aims

This course is designed for those undergraduate students who specialize in Japanese language or Japanese studies at their universities, and who wish to study mainly about Japan in the Japanese language. It is envisaged that using Japanese to obtain knowledge in the subjects of their interests will give the students a deeper knowledge of the language itself, and at the same time, through collaborative learning effort in a multicultural environment, will make it possible for them to view Japan from many different perspectives. The students are expected to acquire the fundamental skills essential for conducting individual research into their specific areas of Japanese studies.

Please refer to page 15 for the application conditions.

2. Characteristics

Students can take Japanese language courses according to their levels of proficiency and attend courses in Japanese studies together with Chiba University undergraduate students. They can also choose from a variety of specialized lectures and seminars offered at different faculties depending on their interests, concerns and Japanese language levels.

At the same time, students are expected to carry out their own research projects using the Japanese language. They are advised to take "Research Work (Humanities) A and B", the courses specifically designed to help them pursue their research projects. Students gain an active learning experience, which goes far beyond acquiring knowledge in the classroom.

Students whose Japanese language proficiency is not enough to learn about Japan in Japanese will be required to take Japanese Studies Courses offered in English only or in both English and Japanese.

The students are encouraged to participate in the Universal Festival, an event where students from different areas of the world introduce their countries and cultures to the audience, and to engage in joint events with Japanese primary schools in the vicinity of Chiba University. Both projects help the students practice how to deliver their thoughts in the Japanese language, and are meant to broaden their relationships with the local Japanese community.

How to choose a course

J-PAC is a program for students studying Japanese language, culture and society at Chiba University.

A following flowchart will help applicants decide which course is appropriate:

※We encourage students who wish to study their major such as science, engineering, economics rather than Japanese culture and society to apply directly for and study at one of our faculties of Chiba University. Please note that the Japanese and/or English language proficiency requirements are different from each faculty.

※Depending on a study plan submitted to the J-PAC, home universities may be informed that the applicant will be directly accepted by one of the faculties of Chiba University, not the J-PAC.

Faculty which J-PAC students belong to at Chiba University & Subjects

J-PAC students will be usually enrolled in College of Liberal Arts and Sciences as exchange students, regardless of the course; International Liberal Arts Course or Japanese Studies Course. College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has three major courses; Global Studies Major Courses, Contemporary Japanese Studies Major Courses and Integrated Science Major Courses. For more information, please visit the website at <https://www.las.chiba-u.jp/english/index.html>. J-PAC students may register for specialized undergraduate courses offered by any faculties with the instructors' permission.

If applicants wish to study mainly Japanese language, culture and society while also pursuing studies at applicant's home university, applicants may join a faculty other than College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Please write a name of a faculty they wish to belong to, the reason for their choice and classes they wish to take in the Plan of Study.

In this case, we strongly recommend that you take specialized courses from your affiliated faculty. Most of the specialized courses are taught in Japanese.

Certificate of Completion & Academic Transcript

To be granted a Certificate of Completion at this program, J-PAC students must have acquired at least ten credits in each semester (from October to February and from April to August) and have attended at least seven classes in each term.

After completion of the program, Chiba University will issue academic transcripts for all the students and mail them to their home institutions. Individual students will normally get their transcripts either around mid-October in case students study at Chiba University until August or around mid-April in case students study at Chiba University until February. Those students who want to later have their Chiba University credits recognized by their home institutions are strongly advised to consult their academic supervisors in their countries before coming to Japan.

Course Offerings

J-PAC students should select courses that match their interests and language ability from the courses listed in (01) to (04) below. The duration of classes at Chiba University is 90 minutes and one term lasts seven weeks (7 in-person classes + 1 online class).

Courses marked with * in (01) and (02) are specialized courses offered by College of Liberal Arts and Sciences. Non-marked courses are designed as General Education where J-PAC students can learn with Chiba University students who have various academic backgrounds. Every course creates a unique international study environment and enables students to broaden their perspectives. Students whose Japanese language competence is equivalent to Japanese 5xx at Chiba University or lower have to take at least one subject in English or in both Japanese and English in each term.

In addition to the courses listed below, J-PAC students may enroll in any other general education courses and specialized courses given at Chiba University with the instructor's permission.

Courses taught in English / Courses where both Japanese and English are used

A wide range of courses, such as courses which deepen understanding of Japanese culture and society or courses which interest students in advanced science, are offered in English. Also the courses are conducted in both Japanese and English for helping students' language abilities, cultural background and background knowledges.

Not just provide students with foundational knowledge about Japan, some courses offer implicit and explicit opportunities to think and critically consider issues that are related to both how Japan presents itself to the world, and to how people would like to see and imagine "Japan" today. Those unique courses are called "Critical Japanese Studies" and offer an environment that allows students to reconsider their images of Japan by reflecting on their own experiences and cultures, and to acquire new perspectives and a deeper awareness of a variety of global phenomena.

- J-PAC students are required to arrive on an appointed day before the semester starts and orientation will be held in the following few days.
- Please return to your home country as soon as possible after classes end.

Japanese Culture Experience Programs

International students have opportunities to experience Japanese culture and interact with people of various social and professional backgrounds through programs such as home-visit. Other events, e.g. a bus tour within Chiba Prefecture and seeing kabuki performance at Tokyo, are also scheduled.

※Japanese Culture Experience Programs may change without prior notice.

Tutor System

Upon request, each J-PAC student is introduced to a Chiba University student as his or her fellow-tutor, who can provide invaluable help in settling down and everyday life. Tutors will support you during initial term. J-PAC students can communicate with tutor before enrollment online. If you have any questions about life in Japan or activities on campus, please feel free to ask your tutor.

Japanese Language Study Room

In the Center for International Education where Japanese language classes are held, there is the Japanese Language Study Room. This room is a facility where international students can find a variety of Japanese language study materials and references, use computers and the internet and also find help from student-tutors who are there on duty during the opening hours.

LEX Program

LEX (Language Exchange) Program is a unique program offered at Chiba University for students to meet in pairs once a week and teach each other's languages and cultures. There are also regular meetings where all LEX participants get together and exchange teaching ideas with other pairs from different language groups so that students broaden opportunities for getting to know people on campus.

English House

English House located on-campus provides a relaxing atmosphere to meet new people and have English conversations.

Housing

J-PAC students can stay an accommodation arranged by Chiba University such as an apartment near the university. They can stay there until the classes end and must leave there and return to their home country after the program. They are not allowed to live in Chiba University housing after the J-PAC program because of internship program etc. Rent varies depending on the facility, but is approximately 50,000 to 80,000 JPY.

Living expenses in Japan

Living expenses including meals, electricity, phone bills and rent fee are about 100,000 JPY per month. Students will also need to pay for textbooks, travel and other activities. Applicants should take this into consideration in their financial plannings before applying for the program. Chiba University does not allow short-term exchange students to do part-time jobs so that they can concentrate to their studies; however, students may be allowed to take a part-time job after having studied at Chiba University for at least one term, only in exceptional circumstances. In addition to having enough cash, we recommend you that you prepare a credit card that can be used in Japan before studying abroad.

Insurance

In addition to the National Health Insurance (about 1,600 JPY per month), students are required to buy the Personal Accident Insurance for Students Pursuing Education and Research "Gakken-sai" (about 1,000 JPY for one year) and Comprehensive Insurance for Student Lives Couples with Gakkensai "Inbound Futai-Gakusou" (about 1,860 JPY for one year) which are offered at Chiba University.

Medical Care in Japan

Chiba University and other medical facilities in Chiba Prefecture provide medical services in English. However, if you have any concerns about your own health, you should make adequate preparations prior to your trip to Japan. For example, you should prepare sufficient prescriptions for regular medications and information on how to receive medical examinations online in your home country. In addition, we strongly advise to bring a medical certificate in English describing the symptoms of their chronic illnesses and the prescription status of their medications (name and dosage), in case of a sudden visit to a medical institution in Japan.

※However, there may be restrictions on the drugs that can be brought into Japan and advance procedures may be required.

No.	年 Year	学期 Semester	コース Term	レベル Level	所属学部 Faculty/College	履修コード Class Code	授業科目名 Course Title	担当教員 Teacher	言語 Language	単位 Credit	Course Description
1	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N0856001	都市生活と環境 1 (JS)	BAI Yinglu	英語/English	1	Urban areas are usually warmer than their rural surroundings, a phenomenon known as the "heat island effect." Urban heat islands (UHIs) can affect communities by increasing summertime peak energy demand, air pollution, heat-related illness and mortality, and water quality. This course aims to develop critical knowledge and understanding of the complexity of urban, urban heat island (UHI) mitigation, and sustainable urban development. This course provides a broad overview of the UHI effects and UHI mitigation strategies in major cities around the world. The course explores how urban planning and management can reduce the UHI effects, with a focus on sustainable urban development. The course will also explore how urban planning and management can contribute to sustainable urban development, including appreciating and respecting the diversity of views and values that influence sustainable development.
2	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N087001	都市生活と環境 2 (JS)	BAI Yinglu	英語/English	1	This course aims to develop a critical understanding of urban sustainability during and post COVID-19 and the nature-based solution for UHI mitigation that can provide multiple functions and benefits. This course contains three parts. Firstly, the course provides comprehensive knowledge on the complexity of UHI mitigation and sustainable urban development. Secondly, the course focuses on key knowledge areas of sustainability measurement, including environmental, social, and economic dimensions. Lastly, we will examine how a city's sustainability has changed over time, which can help urban communities understand how to become healthy, habitable, resilient, and sustainable during and post COVID-19.
3	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N0906001	グローバルな視点から見た日本の経済 (JS)	TSU MON-HAN	英語/English	1	This course introduces modern Japanese economy from a global and historical perspective.
4	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N0927001	比較的文化と社会から見た日本の企業 (JS)	TSU MON-HAN	英語/English	1	This course introduces modern Japanese business from a comparative and theoretical perspective.
5	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N0946001	道徳とリテラシー (JS)	GATTANIDIS IOANNIS	英語/English	2	In this course, we will view into areas of Japanese society that often form the subject of humor or embarrassment in daily conversations. Love hotels, organized crime, prostitution, conspiracy theories or beliefs considered "superstitions," we will explore several examples of the forbidden, marginalized and ignored aspects of today's Japan and will delve into comparisons with the way these subjects are dealt with in other countries. And since every time something is forbidden, something else is allowed, this course opens also a window on manners and rules regulating everyday life and how these are shaped by sociocultural and cultural factors.
6	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N081001	日本のポップカルチャー (JS/A)	Usander Martinez	英語/English	1	In the last couple of decades, Japanese popular culture has attracted unprecedented notice around the world. Japanese manga and anime, of course, but attention is also being paid to television dramas, pop music, and video games. This course will explore the history and evolution of Japanese popular culture and the impact it has had on the world. This course will also examine how the current Japan boom came about and how cultural exports are transforming domestic creative industries. This course will peer behind the scenes of specific popular culture sectors in Japan, in order to break down the so-called "Cool Japan" phenomenon into its constituent parts. Students will be invited to contribute through their own knowledge and perspectives into the re-examination of what we mean by "Japanese popular culture" today.
7	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N082001	日本のポップカルチャー (JS/B)	Usander Martinez	英語/English	1	This class invites students to perform "close readings" of contemporary Japanese popular culture "texts," including hit films, songs, short stories, and even cat memes. While examining patterns that emerge within popular culture's repository of themes and narratives, we will consider what young creatives and production companies aim to communicate to audiences. We will also pay close attention to historical and socio-political contexts behind cultural production. Students are invited to contribute through their own knowledge and perspectives into this critical look at key "texts" of Japanese popular culture.
8	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N090001	グローバルな視点から見た日本近代史 (JS)	BIONTINO JULIAN E.	英語/English	1	The history of a country is not necessarily shapely at its borders. Also, borders themselves are constructs that change through history. This course aims to raise the student's awareness of trends in "Global History", that is, to overcome national history by seeing its global implications and regional or global effects on other countries.
9	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	外国語教育学部 Faculty of General Education	G15N093001	社会運動から見た日本と世界 (JS)	TAO BO	英語/English	1	Social movements are important driving forces behind societal change. This course will explore movements from the past and present that have attempted to transform social values or norms, such as civil disobedience, feminism, LGBTQ+ rights, environmentalism, and labor movements. This course will include the Freedom and People's Movement, the Civil Rights Movement, the Women's Movement, the LGBTQ+ Movement, the Environmental Movement, the Labor Movement, and the Japanese Labor Movement. Through such cases, we will examine the process of social change in Japan and the world from a global context.

110	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15W972601	日本社会と文化への社会的責任の探究 (JS)	Sociological Approaches to Japanese Society and Culture (JS)	YUSUKE Tsubaki	英語English	1	Japanese society is often described as "traditional", or "urban", "rural", or "strange", and "homogeneous" or "diverse." What is a "real" picture of Japanese society? This introductory course examines Japanese society from a sociological perspective. By using concepts such as social class, race/ethnicity, gender, work, family, generations, and geographical features, we observe Japan beyond its stereotypical image of homogeneity and investigate various social problems.
111	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	言語教育/Liberal Arts and Sci G0113325501	総合科学としての火山学	Volcanoes: a Holistic and Multi-disciplinary Study	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語English	1	This course provides volcanic geology fundamentals, armed with case studies of historical eruptions overseas, such as those of Vesuvius (Italy) and Mt. St. Helens (USA). In addition to the basic knowledge of volcanology, students will explore volcanic eruption-related disasters and how they mitigate the subsequent hazards, using the textbook and the materials from the USGS (United States Geological Survey) and FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency).
112	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	言語教育/Liberal Arts and Sci G0113329401	環境変動と自然災害	Confronting Climate Change and Natural Hazards	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語English	1	This course explores the mechanisms of climate changes since the emergence of human about 2.6 million years ago, focusing on the cause (both natural and human) and the effect of climate change, including natural disasters which have been increasing in frequency and magnitude in recent years worldwide. To better understand this issue, we study the climate change in a hierarchy of time scales ranging from tens of years to 100,000s years worldwide. We discuss the cause and effect on each cyclicity or spatiality with a multi-disciplinary approach: from the viewpoints of not only natural sciences such as geology, biology, and physics, but also sociology, psychology, politics, international relationships, and other political/cultural sciences. For case studies of both climate-related environmental changes and natural disasters, we use a wide range of examples from all over the world.
113	2025	FS	T4	Undergraduate	言語教育/Liberal Arts and Sci G0113329301	科学的思考法II	Scientific Thinking II	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語English	1	In this course, students discuss various topics on brain health using logical and critical-thinking skills. Before each class, every student is expected to study the basics of brain science using a popular textbook written for science communication with the general public, do homework on the content of each chapter, and prepare for group discussion before attending each flipped-teaching class in person in the classroom (Room G15-103, GB Building, Nishikibaru campus). Each student gives a short oral presentation or speech (without PowerPoint or similar presentation software) on different topics on brain health (at least two talks per student in the entire course). Visual aids are limited to the images (jpeg) identical to the figures or tables in the paper or slides in the lecture. In-class, students exchange their ideas to compare their opinions more objectively and get feedback from others to refine their critical thinking skills.
114	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	言語教育/Liberal Arts and Sci G0114270801	文化と言語	Culture and Language	NOMURA Kazuyuki	英語English	1	Culture and language are intricately intertwined, but these two topics tend to be separately studied in two disciplines: anthropology and linguistics. And yet, the interface between language and culture (linguistic anthropology) provides a viable outlook to understand how language reflects cultural norms, and conversely, how culture reflects linguistic forms. Among various human languages, Japanese is undoubtedly most relevant to students. The course aims to explore how Japanese culture feeds into the Japanese language. Specific topics include politeness, honor, and social hierarchy. This course is designed for students who wish to enhance their knowledge of Japanese culture and/or the Japanese language from comparative perspectives.
115	2026	SS	T1	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15W972601	現代日本政治論—戦後レジームからの脱却 (JS)	Japanese Politics Today—Beyond the Postwar Regime? (JS)	TSUJIMORI HAN	英語English	1	This course is intended to introduce to students to major political developments and issues since the end of the Cold War coincided with the bursting of Japan's Bubble Economy. This period is also mostly synonymous with the reign of Heisei. To grasp political changes in Japan since the end of the Cold War, it is vital to know what constitutes the so-called the postwar (political) regime between 1955 and 1989, and it will help students to understand what the former Prime Minister Abe Shinzo means by "getting out of the postwar regime" and will be in a position to assess the continuities, innovations and rupture between the two periods.
116	2026	SS	T2	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15N412001	日本の事例を通して気候変動と持続可能性 (JS)	Introduction to Sustainability: Case-studies from Japan (JS)	BAI Yungui	英語English	1	This course introduces the core concepts and the academic approach of sustainability, with a focus on the basic sustainability theory and its role in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). The first half of this course provides students with an understanding of definitions of sustainability and sustainable development that harnesses the central components of sustainability. In the second half, the focus shifts to the SDGs and achieving the SDGs through integrated solutions. Students will explore three of the most pressing challenges underlying the SDGs including climate change, poverty and inequality, and ecosystem degradation. In the last several weeks, students will learn how to increase sustainability and "Circle of Sustainability" through case studies. Discussions will include the trade-offs, co-benefits and synergies between sustainability and development.
117	2026	SS	T1	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15N054601	気候変動とその対応策 I (JS)	Climate Change: Leadership—Behavior Change and Culture 1 (JS)	BAI Yungui	英語English	1	This course introduces basic concepts of climate change science, including the causes, environmental and societal impacts, as well as mitigation and adaptation strategies and their implementation. The first half of the course will focus on the fundamentals of climate change science. In the second half, the focus will shift to global climate change impacts and proposed solutions. In the last several weeks, we will examine technological solutions and policy options under the Paris Agreement with an emphasis on sustainable development challenges.
118	2026	PS	T2	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15N055001	気候変動とその対応策 II (JS)	Climate Change: Leadership—Behavior Change and Culture 2 (JS)	BAI Yungui	英語English	1	The Paris Agreement fundamentally reshaped the structures of international climate policy. This course provides up-to-date knowledge on climate change policies under the Paris Agreement, with a focus on the topics of healthy energy systems, the sustainable communities, and inclusive economic growth. We will explore current policy toward the implementation of the Paris Agreement through case studies, such as 2050 Net-Zero emissions target. Students will be asked to critically analyze the latest proposed solutions to climate change and their potential capacities and limitations (or risks). That will help explain how governments at the international, national, and regional levels are addressing – or not addressing – the extraordinary challenge of climate change.
119	2026	SS	T2	Undergraduate	言語教育/General Education G15W972601	多言語コミュニケーション (JS)	Multilingualism and Translanguaging (JS)	NOMURA Kazuyuki	英語English	1	Communication across multiple languages and cultures is no longer uncommon in today's globalized world. Drawing on findings in linguistic anthropology and sociolinguistics, this course focuses on multilingualism and translanguaging among users of Japanese in Japan and other contexts. We explore sociocultural roles that translanguaging assumes in micro-level multilingual interactions and interrelations between translanguaging and macro-level multilingual societies. Multilingual ideologies will also be examined. This course is a Japanese Studies subject and the medium of instruction is English.

20	2026	SS	T2	Undergraduate	普通教育/General Education	G15N4945001	生物多様性と日本 (JS)	Biodiversity and Japan (JS)	NTTA JOEL HAMILTON	英語/English	1	Spectra are currently being lost from the earth due to human activities at an unprecedented rate. Aside from its intrinsic value, the loss of biodiversity threatens the very existence of humankind. We will learn how the fundamental biodiversity science by focusing on Japan in a global context. We will learn how to define and measure biodiversity, explore the distribution of biodiversity in Japan and globally, and discuss the most effective ways to conserve biodiversity.
21	2026	SS	T2	Undergraduate			科学的思考法 I	Scientific Thinking I	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語/English	1	In this advanced course taught in English, students discuss on scientific topics on Scientific Thinking in everyday life, media, and popular science using logical and critical-thinking skills. Before each class, every student is expected to (1) review the basics of logic using the course materials (see below), (2) homework related to logic, and (3) prepare a presentation on a topic of their choice. In class, students will exchange their ideas through the online discussion and presentations. Subsequently, each student will compare opinions more objectively, and get feedback from others to refine their logical, critical, and scientific-thinking abilities.
22	2026	SS	T1	Undergraduate	国際教養/International Education	G15N4945001	地球史と地球学	Geological History of Earth and the Record in Strata	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語/English	1	This course studies how Earth's environments (including atmospheric/oceanic compositions, climate, life forms, hence the evolution and extinction of different species) changed since its birth about 4.6 billion-years ago, such as evolution. We will also learn how their geological events have been recorded in strata (e.g., layers of rocks and sediments), and how to extract and read the information. Next, we will discuss how these events are related to our lives today and the future. These topics include natural-forecast (or, human-induced) factors that control natural disasters, climate change (including the ongoing global warming), and the economic growth of the industry.
23	2026	SS	T2	Undergraduate	国際教養/International Education	G15N4945001	資源学	Natural Resources	YOSHIDA Shuji	英語/English	1	This course discusses natural resources that originate from Earth's geological processes, such as minerals (e.g., iron, gold), groundwater, and fossil fuels. With a focus on Japan, the role and the global community appear to be focusing on eliminating CO2 emission. Nonetheless, hydrocarbons (oil, natural gas, and coal) are still the dominant energy source worldwide today, and we heavily rely on them without adequately shifting to alternative energy sources. Even if we succeed in replacing all fossil fuels with clean energy sources, we are still not able to reduce the use of petroleum drastically, as we need it as a raw material for medicines, fibers, and other petrochemical products. We will discuss the solution to these problems from an individual level to a corporate/ government level, including their responsibilities.
24	2025	FS	T5	Undergraduate	普通教育/General Education	G15N4945001	異文化交際教育(JS)	Japanese Culture from Interrelational Perspectives	NISHIZUMI Kanako	英語/English + 日本語/Japanese	2	In this course, Japanese and international students work together and deepen their understanding and awareness of Japanese culture and tradition. This is the course where both Japanese and English are used so that we all think together what is important to promote mutual understanding in a bilingual/multilingual environment.
25	2026	SS	T1	Undergraduate	普通教育/General Education	G15N4945001	宗教と社会 (JS)	Religion & Society (JS)	GAITANIDS IOANNIS	英語/English + 日本語/Japanese	2	This course deals with some fundamental subjects of debate about the relation between religion and society taking contemporary Japan as a case study. With a continuum of religious and social issues, we will discuss the role of religion in the modern society. The course will also offer the opportunity of faith-related volunteer groups offering community service after 3.11, and with a contemporary history marked by the 1995 Aum affair, Japan offers the chance to peer into the innermost workings of religion in post-industrial societies and, more specifically, into religious relations with politics, social engagement and violence. You will find no definite answers in this course, but you will undoubtedly leave every week with the knowledge and skills that are necessary to understand and build your own arguments.
